The advantage of buying a computer with both an HDD and SSD is that you could store your operating system and apps on the SSD and the rest of your files on the HDD. This would mean that your software would run faster than it would on an HDD.

Choosing the right computer - John Lewis

If you work from home and plan to use a computer all day long, a desktop is a better bet than a laptop or use a laptop with a plug-in keyboard (and possibly plug-in screen as well). If your computer hasn't got exactly the features you want, don't worry.
