the latent heat to be condensed out of the flue gases. The boiler will achieve nett thermal efficiencies of 100%. To achieve maximum performance from the Grant Vortex boiler, it is recommended that the heating system is designed so that a temperature differential of 20Â° C between the flow and return is maintained. The use of modulating circulating pumps (now widely available) and effective ...

the vortex lift and the leading-edge suction associated with the potential flow about the leading edge. This concept, when combined with potential-flow theory modified to include the nonlinearities associated with the exact boundary condition and the loss of the lift component of the leading-edge suction, provides excellent prediction of the total lift for a wide range of delta wings up to ...
